Pay Dales Tribute As Mayor Presides At Final Session

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales reaffirmed his decision to retire from the position of mayor of Newmarket at the last meeting of the Newmarket town council Friday night with a "feeling of regret, not unmixed with pride in having served with such a loyal council."

"It has been a great pleasure to have served with you and it is with regret that I am leaving you," he said.

Councillor Joseph Vale said that he would be a candidate for the mayoralty, that he "would aspire to the position being vacated by Dr. Dales." It was strange that Dr. Dales, who had instigated more rows in council in the past, should preside over a council so co-operative in serving the best interests of the town, he said. "It is a tribute to Dr. Dales."

"We have had many differences in council but they have not been personal," said Mr. Vale.

Reeve Arthur D. Evans said that the members of council had all co-operated in serving the taxpayers. "There was none of the rush of the past, but time to think over problems and discuss them," he added. He said he would stand again as a candidate for the reeveship. Paying tribute to Dr. Dales, he said that he brought to the council an enthusiasm which can't be bought by money.

Councillor G. M. Byers said it had been a pleasure to have served in council and that he would stand again. "We are going to miss you and hope that you will still give us the benefit of your advice," he told Dr. Dales.

"To me it is rather sad that Dr. Dales is severing his official connection with the town council," said Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spilllette. "We are going to miss him. He has done as much or more than any man in Newmarket for the town." He said he was happy Mr. Vale was going to run as mayor. "I respect and admire him," he said.

"It has been a pleasure to have served under Dr. Dales and although there have been many trying moments, we have surmounted our difficulties through working together as a council," said Councillor Frank Bowser. He said he would seek office again and that he was glad Mr. Vale would seek the office of mayor.

Councillor R. C. Morrison said that he was struck by the change in atmosphere since his earlier term on council in 1933-34. "Then it had been 'no, no'. Now it is an atmosphere of optimism, of progress." He said he would stand again.

Councillor J. A. Perks said that this was his last term and he would not seek office again. "It has been a privilege to have served on the council," he said. "I confess a strong feeling of regret in leaving such pleasant associations."

Dales Says He's Out, Vale To Sack Post

In a pre-nomination round-up, this is how the situation stands:

TOWN COUNCIL

Dr. L. W. Dales re-affirmed his decision to retire as mayor.

Councillor Joseph Vale says he will run for mayor. Reeve Arthur D. Evans says he will seek a return to that position.

Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spilllette is reserving his decision.

Councillor J. Allan Perks says he is retiring this year.

Councillor Mrs. Caroline Edwards is reserving her decision.

Councillors Frank Bowser, R. C. Morrison, and George M. Byers have all said they would seek a return to council.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

The terms of the present chairman, L. H. Bovair, and Stephen Rose and Dr. G. E. Case, expire this year. Mr. Rose has said he is not seeking office this year, Mr. Bovair and Dr. Case are reserving their decisions.

HYDRO COMMISSION

Fred. S. Thompson is the retiring member of the commission. He says he will run again.

LIONS' DRIVE FOR CHRISTMAS BOXES OPENED

The Newmarket Lions club has begun its annual campaign for funds for Christmas baskets this week. In the past, there has been strong public support for this project and R. C. Morrison, president of the club, and H. E. Lambert, chairman of the Christmas basket committee, strongly urge the continued support of the citizens.

"We are proud to be able to assume this task but we realize we can only be effective according to the support of the public," said Mr. Morrison. "I call on all citizens to send us their contributions now."

"There are many needy families in Newmarket who, without the Christmas baskets supplied by the Lions club, would have a cold Christmas indeed," said Mr. Lambert. "Through the support of the public, the Lions club is able to bring to these families some warmth and good cheer. Lend us your aid in making Christmas merry for those who are less fortunate."

"Let us all endeavor to make some worthy contribution now so that no family in Newmarket will be overlooked. The more your contributions, the more the club can supply to those needing help. Remember, 'As ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me'."

Contributions will be received by any member of the Lions club, at the Bank of Toronto and the Bank of Montreal and the office of The Newmarket Era and Express. The names of the contributors will be printed in The Era and Express.

VISIT OF 'OLD BOY' RECALLS TOWN HISTORY

Dr. Nelson Gorham Russell, one of Buffalo's leading doctors who was a former Newmarket boy, was in town last Sunday renewing old acquaintances. His home was on Gorham St. where W. R. Stephens now lives, and his grandfather, Col. Nelson Gorham, lived across the way where Walter Perrin lives.

Many older residents of Newmarket will remember the old Gorham woollen mills on the bank of the stream as it crosses the street and the old Gorham mill pond which supplied the mill with power. Those were the days of the home spun where the farmer sheared his own sheep, took his wool to the Gorham woollen mill and had it made into rolls. These were taken home, spun into yarn and finally woven into the rough, checked flannel that made skirts, shirts and stockings for the farmer's family.

NOMINATIONS FRIDAY

Nominations for the Newmarket town council, three members of the Newmarket public school board, and one member for the Newmarket hydro commission will be held in the Newmarket town hall Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

SURVEY DAMAGE FOLLOWING BLAST

Johnston W. Sheard, left, and John Sheard, his father, survey the damage done by a mysterious explosion to their home on Prospect Ave. The blast took place early Friday morning and broke 14 of the 16 panes of glass in the front of the Sheard home. The cause of the blast is still unknown but police investigation continues. Photo by Budd.

Blast At Midnight Still Being Probed, Cause Yet Unknown

Chief Constable Ronald Watt reported today that there were no further developments in the investigation of the blast which blew out the windows of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheard, 23 Prospect Ave., early Friday morning, but that the investigation was continuing. Police have been working on the case since Friday.

The blast blew out 14 of 16 windows in the front of the Sheard house and broke windows in three other houses on the street. No one was injured, but Johnston Sheard, a war veteran and son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheard, who was living with his parents, was treated by Dr. L. W. Dales for shock.

It was thought at first that the explosion had been caused by a hand grenade which was dropped or thrown near the Sheard house but Chief Watt discounted that theory when a thorough search of the scene failed to uncover any grenade fragments.

A stick of dynamite was also suggested as having caused the explosion. The blast seared the pavement in front of the Sheard home but there was no deep hole in the road.

Time of the blast was set between 12.14 a.m. and 12.15 a.m. Friday. The shock of the blast, which awakened many in Newmarket, jarred the power recorder at the waterworks, establishing the time. The blast occurred near the water reservoir on Prospect St. but no damage was reported by Angus Morrison, superintendent.

According to Johnston Sheard, he had just returned from the hospital where his wife had given birth to a son and had just turned off the light preparatory to retiring when the explosion occurred.

Residents of Prospect Ave., when questioned, said they had heard the sound of a racing car just before the explosion.

F. Brown and his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Brown, who were awake at the time of the explosion, said they heard a car go south on Prospect, and later return at a high rate of speed just before the explosion.

Mrs. J. H. Crocker and Mrs. Michael Sannutto, 24 Prospect, were in the kitchen at the time of the explosion. They rushed to the window when they heard the blast. They said a car had passed just before the blast. They thought at first the blast was caused by a furnace or stove, they said.

Mrs. Barney Jackson, who was visiting friends nearby, said that she was just starting home when the blast occurred. "When we came out, we expected to see smoke or flames in the air but there was nothing," she said. "We walked by the house on the way home and there were people out on the lawn. However, nobody seemed to be hurt, so we went home. The front windows of the house were blown out but there didn't seem to be much other damage."

"My two married daughters, my married son, my single daughter and three small children were sleeping in the house," said Mrs. John Sheard, mother of Johnston. "I thought the house had fallen in me. When we got outside, the neighbors were there, too, but we could find nothing to indicate what had caused the explosion. There were no bomb fragments and nothing at all except the broken windows to indicate what had happened."

John Sheard, an employee of the Davis Leather Co. Ltd., said that so far as he knew, the family had no enemies and the neighbors were very friendly and kind. He said he had lived in the house for six years.

Reporter Visits Kin Here, Tells Of War Experiences

"The only trouble about reporting what the Canadians were doing on the fighting fronts was that you had to go into such tough places to find them, almost too tough for a correspondent," said Joseph Illingworth in a recent interview with The Era and Express. "You always found them in the most filthy positions, especially in Holland."

Mr. Illingworth was a war correspondent representing the Yorkshire Post in Africa and Italy, and represented a group of papers including The Liverpool Post, the Belfast News-Letter and the Sunday Observer in Europe. After the end of hostilities, Mr. Illingworth spent a week in Schwerin, Mecklenburg, in the Russian zone.

Mr. Illingworth was in Newmarket recently, visiting his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. Leach, 19 Wesley St. He had not seen them for 20 years. His home is in Leeds, England. "I feel that a great deal of what Russia does, she does from fear and weakness," said Mr. Illingworth. "She is uneasy in an

Drama Club Presents Second Play Of Season

The latest Newmarket Dramatic club production, Here Comes Charlie, went over in a big way with Newmarket audiences on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The play, a three-act comedy by Jay Tobias, contained a great deal of character acting, which was handled in an almost professional manner. In between acts the "something new" was added by Bobby Koffend, youngest member of the club, who filled in with several piano solos.

Bobby has never been seen in the play by the audience, but his part of the program has been important nevertheless. In the first production, Ready Made Family, he was the young messenger who was heard but not seen.

Last night's cast included Grace Smith as Nora Malone, cook at the Elliott home; Kenneth Fleet as Officer Tim McGill, her sweetheart; Vera Brown as Mrs. Fanny Farnham, Larry's aunt by marriage; Charles Boyd as Larry Elliott, a young businessman; Marilyn Wildfield as Ted Hartley, his old-time college pal; Helen Covey as Vivian Smythe-Kersey, Larry's fiancée, Alec Eves as Uncle Abner Twigg, in charge of Charlie; Helen Ough as Charlie Hoppes, Larry's ward; Edna McGrath as Mrs. Caroline Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's mother; and Bill Dobson as Mortimer Smythe-Kersey, Vivian's brother. Mrs. Dorothy Bowman directed the play, while Jack Higginson was stage manager.

"On Tuesday night R. Stern-Bennett of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, well known adjudicator and director, was present at the presentation, and afterwards he gave an informal address to members of the club. He praised them for their ambitious program of a play a month and encouraged them to continue taking their plays on the road."

"It is through experience that you gain poise and relaxation on the stage," he said, and he looked forward to the time when the Newmarket Dramatic club would put on a play which would run every night for three weeks.

Later a reception was held for Mr. Stern-Bennett at the home of Mrs. T. R. Hilliard.

Mrs. Bowman said that the dramatic club was hoping at some future date to write its own plays. "We are working toward the dominion drama festival," she said. "Outside of Toronto, Newmarket has the only group in southern Ontario with this end in view. In February, in competition with the Ontario clubs, we will put on a one-act play at Hart House, and if our group wins the competition there, we will go to London to compete with division winners from all over Canada."

Next month the group will present Dickens' Christmas Carol, with Alec Eves as Scrooge. Dr. C. E. VanderVoort will direct the play, which calls for nine assistant stage managers.

12 Polish Veterans Put On Farms In District

Twelve Poles, veterans of General Anders' army in Italy, arrived in Newmarket Tuesday morning and have been placed on farms in the district. Each man has had farm experience and signed a contract for one year with the farmer who is employing him.

Another group of Polish veterans are expected in Newmarket within a few days. The Poles were brought to Canada under a federal scheme to ease the farm labor shortage. "The men are being paid prevailing farm wages with a minimum of $45 a month."

Few of the group could speak English although several indicated they could read English. Several English speaking Poles who were to be included in the party were held up by medical examinations.

The men had seen considerable service, according to the ribbons they wore. Several wore a ribbon indicating service at Monte Cassino in Italy and most of them wore the Eighth

ASKS APPOINTMENT
On the recommendation of Reeve Arthur D. Evans, seconded by Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spilllette, Newmarket town council Friday night passed a resolution recommending the appointment of W. J. Patterson by the York county council to the Newmarket high school board. Mr. Patterson has been a member of the board for close to 30 years.

COLD DELIBERATIONS
The Newmarket town council chambers felt the first touch of winter's icy hand Friday as members of the council shivered their way through the last meeting of the council before the elections. There was no heat in the building at all.

Army shoulder badge. Their allocation to farms was handled through the local national employment office under the supervision of A. D. Schneider, manager.

'They Helped Us A Lot,' Pays Tribute To Teachers

In a valedictory address at the Newmarket high school commencement-Friday evening, Ruth Lister advised students now at the high school to support school activities to the best of their ability.

"Enter into things with the idea of putting something into them, rather than getting something out of them," she said. "Your rewards will come naturally if you keep these thoughts in mind."

"We are grateful for the help that our teachers gave us in solving our problems, both educational and in other fields. We appreciate the kindness, patience and understanding they showed in helping us to be the right kind of citizen."

Full text follows. J. W. Lockhart, principal of the high school, was chairman for the second portion of the program. The Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. C. Jamieson, sang three selections before Mr. Lockhart introduced the guest and the staff on the platform. Following Mr. Graham's address, Father T. F. McCabe presented the intermediate diplomas. Miss A. King presented the lower school prizes.

Miss Eileen Jackson played an arrangement of Deep Purple, which was followed by the presentation of the middle school diplomas and the prizes by George D. Bender and R. D. Brown respectively.

Members of the high school board present for the exercises included W. J. Geer, chairman, G. Bender, R. L. Boag, D. Brown, G. L. Manning, Rev. T. F. McCabe, and A. M. Mills, secretary.

"There are three distinct points of view with regard to the aims of education," said Donald Graham, guest speaker. "One is that knowledge is solely for the purpose of increasing earnings and that the only kind of knowledge worth teaching is the kind that will lead directly to this end. The second is that the purpose of education is to help the young person adjust himself to our complex society. The third is that the purpose of education is to give young people the wisdom of the ages and the sages."

PUBLIC APATHY HOLDS UP IMPROVEMENT

No one ever gets anything for nothing. You have to invest before you can collect. This is just as true of municipal government as it is of mining. Newmarket citizens have not invested very much of their time or energy in the business of their community, so that when they stumble on broken sidewalks or miss their step on a poorly-lit street, they have only themselves to blame.

It is not the fault of the chairman of the roads and bridges committee of the Newmarket town council that the sidewalks are in the mess they are. It is not the fault of the town council or the hydro commissioners that the streets are poorly lit. The broken sidewalks and the dark streets are the fault of the citizens of Newmarket. They are getting municipal services in proportion to their interest in municipal government.

The members of the Newmarket town council are the agents of the citizens. They act in what they believe to be the best interest of all the town. The citizens may not like limiting the roads and bridges budget so that there is no money for sidewalks, but what difference does it make to the councillors? The majority of the citizens never show any sort of interest or concern in improving municipal services and as far as the councillors are concerned, they are doing the right thing.

Who among the readers of this editorial have taken the trouble to attend the meetings of the Newmarket town council? On the record of the year, a very few. What councillors have been asked to explain their positions on various issues to public meetings? Who have closely examined council policies with the view of improving them? A very few, indeed. Every councillor receives a certain amount of random enquiry and complaint. But no stretch of the imagination will enable him to see in such comments an indication of the will of the majority which it is his job to observe.

As far as the wishes of the majority of the citizens in Newmarket are concerned, the town council, and every other municipal body works in a vacuum created by public apathy. If the municipal representatives don't do what the citizens think they should do, the citizens have only themselves to blame.

The climatic indication of this indifference was seen at nomination night last year, when only 41 men and eight women showed enough concern for the welfare of Newmarket to attend. There has been no indication that it will be any different tomorrow night. We wonder if it is too important. There's much to be done in Newmarket, but if the citizens are indifferent to improvement and progress, then there is not much use worrying about it.

OTHER TOWN COUNCILS PAY RECREATION COST

Bowmanville is comparable to Newmarket in size and population. Like Newmarket, it has industry and a large farming population in its trading area, and like Newmarket, it is embarking upon a community recreation program on the same pattern as we have here. There is this difference, however: the Bowmanville town council is paying the recreation director there a salary of $2,400 yearly.

Bowmanville's weekly paper, the well-known Canadian Statesman, reports that the Bowmanville council was unanimous in its approval of wage to the recreation director. Other municipalities are doing the same thing. The council is assuming the major expenses of the recreation program as if it were a part of the municipal services. In Newmarket, the recreation program has been financed in a large part through donations of industry and private citizens.

At the present time, Mr. Alfred "Mickey" Smith, as Newmarket recreation director, is being paid from funds raised during the financial campaign. During the winter, his salary will be paid from the receipts of the Newmarket arena. In the summer, his salary, we expect, will again be paid from contributions to the recreation council unless the town council, which has contributed $500 to the recreation council and $500 to cover the capital expenditures on the arena, will assume that responsibility.

Bowmanville, Georgetown, and a list of nearly 30 other municipalities have assumed the major costs of a recreation program, including the employment of a recreation director, through their councils. Newmarket, which has pioneered in some aspects of a community recreation program (its swimming instruction program, for one) continues to finance its efforts by contributions from the public. The democratic way is to have the town council pay the cost from its tax revenues.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING ATTRACTIONS NEEDED

Last weekend, there was a general exodus of mothers and children, yes, and fathers too, to Toronto where the annual Santa Claus parade was held. With these mothers and children went Christmas shopping dollars which could have been spent in Newmarket if the merchants here had demonstrated sufficient foresight to provide the same attraction.

Some weeks ago, we urged the merchants on Main St., in their own interests, to prepare for the Christmas season by planning a Santa Claus parade and an adequate Christmas market. The suggestion has fallen on deaf ears. No move has been made so far and the amount of time left for Christmas action.

The Newmarket merchants are losing a great deal more than they apparently realize through their failure to meet the competition of such Christmas attractions as a Santa Claus parade and a Christmas market. Other centres have assumed the importance for Christmas markets which once belonged to Newmarket, and with it, much Christmas business. Every family which goes to Toronto for the Santa Claus parade, lessens the amount of business a Newmarket merchant might do.

There is a growing resentment among those important consumers, the mothers, over the indifference of Newmarket merchants to Christmas attractions. No businessman can make much headway without the goodwill of his customers. Each year Newmarket merchants are losing more of that goodwill.

The merchants of Newmarket must realize that business goes to those who provide the best services. At the present time, in this year of shortages, there is little to choose between a city store and a Newmarket store. But it will not always be that way. The goodwill encouraged by a Santa Claus parade is going to pay off with vengeance in another year or two, and the Newmarket merchants who thought that they could ignore the competition of such activities are going to have a rude awakening.

It is not too late yet for the merchants of Newmarket to act. Surely it should not be too difficult to organize a Christmas parade and an adequate market. For the small investment in time and money now, Newmarket can reap fresh benefits as merchandise supplies increase and the buyers' market returns.

HISTORICAL SITES
WITHOUT PROTECTION

We drew attention last week to the condition of the historic Anglican cemetery on the outskirts of Newmarket on Eagle St. The cemetery has been allowed to fall into a disgraceful condition through the lack of attention. Weeds have overgrown the graves of the ancestors of many Newmarket families. Names are indistinguishable from the wearing of the rain and frost. What was, in truth, a source book of early Newmarket history has become a forest of brambles and broken stones.

This lack of interest in local history is noticeable elsewhere. What has become of the old Presbyterian church which once stood on Timothy St? The church was associated with the earliest beginnings of Newmarket. During the rebellion of 1837, it was used to house prisoners. There is no sign of it now. Public opinion was so little impressed with the importance of preserving local history that there was little, if any, action to save the building.

On Yonge St. stands the meeting house, built in 1808-10 by Friends who came to Canada following the War of Independence between England and the United States. The building is still in use, a wedding being performed there not long ago and annual meetings being held there each spring. Here is another monument of early Newmarket. Will it go the way of other historical sites in Newmarket and district as the years march on?

Mr. Aubrey Davis, in a letter to the editor in the Nov. 7 issue, pointed out the need of a proper building for the housing of historical documents and relics. In Newmarket, despite the abundance of its historical associations, there is no building to house these records where they will be safe.

The condition of the cemetery, the doubtful future of the Friends meeting house, the lack of proper protection of the documents relating to the history of this community and district, all point to a failure to properly assess the value of the past. Vested in these historical monuments is a living link with the past. Here is something which surpasses the interest of scholars. In these sites are a constant reminder of the proud history which we enjoy, and the heritage from the past which we must cherish if we are to face the future. Let there be action now before it is too late.

What Others Think

THE FARM PROBLEM

(The Richmond Hill Liberal)
Various news items from Ottawa show that the Canadian farmer has been and is continuing to receive the very special consideration of the dominion government. The Hon. James Gardiner has given an illustration of how difficult are the problems that confront the farmer, and he has shown that he has so comprehensive an understanding of the subject that one may confidently expect solutions from him that will be practical and lasting.

Mr. Gardiner points out, for example, that when a group of manufacturers make an article they are privileged to put a price on it while farmers enjoy no such privilege, but are obliged to accept whatever price for their products market conditions may evolve. That, says the minister, is the nub of the farm problem, and there are few who will dispute his contention. He says, further, that we must go to the root of the trouble to eradicate it, and we believe that is the proper course to follow rather than to administer sedatives and opiates that will not remedy the ailments of agriculture regardless of how much momentary relief they may provide.

And, of all classes in the community, the farmer is most assuredly entitled to a remedy. Illustrative of his need, an excellent word picture was drawn a few days ago by John Atkins of Muskoka in an address to the woolen and knit goods manufacturers of the dominion. Mr. Atkins pointed out that the farmer rises probably about 4.30 or 5 a.m. to do his chores and then after eight to ten hours of field or bush work, he takes up his evening chores which may engage him two or three hours. If he then decides on a little rest, he turns on his radio only to learn that another strike has been settled with a reduction of five to ten hours per week for the workers, pay increases of ten to 20 percent, and two weeks' summer vacation with pay. If the farmer fails to believe he is leading a right jolly life, can he be blamed?

Mr. Gardiner and the economic and agricultural experts of the dominion government have tackled the farm problem in a sensible and substantial way. They believe the farmer will not come into his own until he has been given a status equivalent to that of the city industrialist, a status that will assure him a reasonable return on his capital expenditure and personal effort, and we are altogether in favor of such a solution.

TO THE EDITOR

The editor: Years ago, when the William Cane Wooden Ware Co. flourished in Newmarket, and the high freight rates made it necessary for them to seek some other source of bringing their raw material, the government devised the dredging of the Holland River as an extension of the Trent Valley Canal. This was the origin of the Holland River Canal, or as it was always called, the Newmarket Canal, and it was expected this canal would be an immense advantage in the transportation system by connecting the northern part of the county with Lake Simcoe.

The canal was planned to be operated by the construction of three locks in the dredged out part of the east branch of the Holland River, extending from Newmarket to the navigable part of the river. The three immense locks were built and the dredging from Davis' Drive to lock No. 1, a mile to the north, was completed when the work was suspended.

At the present time this large canal basin is filled with a black, mostly odorless, almost motionless expanse of water held in check from passing on in the regular course of the stream by the lock. This large basin contains the sewage of Newmarket as well as what comes from other sources. The sewage contained in this basin undergoes the same process of decomposition that the contents of all house septic tanks do. Sedimentation and bacterial decomposition of all organic material takes place, while the clear water goes over the tumbling dam, passing through the regular course of the stream to be intercepted at lock No. 2 and also lock No. 3, at which time there is further sedimentation and decomposition of any organic material remaining in the water. Water is known to purify itself after running a certain distance.

Even if the town sewage did not pass into this canal basin and undergo sedimentation and bacterial decomposition, the water of the stream would still be contaminated as it always has been on account of the organic material coming into it from many sources. The idea of dredging Fairy Lake in town and purifying the water for a swimming pool is out of the question.

The Don River is contaminated in its entire course until it empties into the Toronto Bay, the evidence of which can be seen by observing the bunches of thick, green grass as the river passes in its very tortuous course.

The Grand River receives a lot of sewage from a large city through which it runs, and yet that same water is taken from the river, is chlorinated and used by the citizens for domestic purposes.

When there is no evidence of sickness of disease to man or beast that can be traced to the overflow of water at the tumbling dam of lock No. 1, why should we spend one or two hundred thousand dollars for a disposal plant, with another two or three thousand for sewage treatment every year?

The only benefit in the government's $750,000 expenditure in the construction of the Newmarket Canal would appear to be the septic disposal basin with its immense concrete dam by which the sewage of the town of Newmarket is held while undergoing the process of decomposition.

LOOKING BACKWARD

I have heard it said that too much looking backward is one of the worst things we can do. It is supposed to put a drag upon us—mentally, morally, physically—and so weaken the resources which we are supposed to be building up for the future.

There are certain aspects of this that are true enough, for I suppose that each one of us has done many things he or she could wish undone and much that could profitably have been done. Then, too, there are sorrows in each past which, if dwelt upon to excess, tend to make one morbid; and morbidly and remorse are bound to react on our physical condition. But there are times when one has to look back—times when it is good to take the past into account and one such time is Remembrance Day.

That first mad, glad November 11 seems so far away now—many who were in this war were not even born then but we, who had lived through what we told ourselves was the war to end wars, celebrated in jubilant fashion and then settled down to what we thought was to be a world of peace, prosperity and security for all and especially for the men who had given the best years of their lives to attain what we hoped would be a new world—one world.

What we failed to take into consideration was that men's passions, their greed for power, for money, for expansion, for domination, were only curbed, not conquered. The new world was founded on the old foundations, not on the Golden Rule, and the old strifes between classes, between ideologies and between the nations were soon flourishing according to the old pattern.

And what of the men who fought for an ideal? Bewildered, hurt, they were forgotten men when their brief day of glory was over. Some of them fought through to victory over adverse circumstances, some went down never to rise again and some were so hopelessly embittered that they were an easy prey to crime or communism. Now, after some 28 years, the veterans of another world war are cast into the struggle to earn a living. I think that one of the sorest spots in the veteran problem is the terrible divergence between the promises made at recruiting time and the lack of fulfillment when those same men come home. All through the war those men carried the promise of their future stability, their place in "the world of tomorrow," warm in their hearts as a shield and bulwark against the terrible hardships they were then enduring.

Then they came home to a land unprepared for them, a land so wrapped in war preparation and prosperity that there was no room for the men who came back—men confident that they would find a land glad to welcome them and give them what they wanted, needed and had lived, fought and suffered for—homes and work.

So I think looking backward should give us something. It should teach us that we, as a young country, have a marvellous chance to change what is wrong with our economy, national and political. Through this war we have grown internationally but have we grown nationally? We are growing in numbers and founding a Canadian character. Is that character founded on Christ's doctrine of equality for all men or is it on the premise that each man is for himself and the Devil take the hindmost? We are a land of homes—when we can get them—not of communal living, and from these homes go out the men and women who will say at the polls what Canada is to do in the future. And so, every way you look at it, our future and the future of the world is made in the home. What is taught the children becomes the policy of the nations.

We, of an older generation, were taught religion in the home but not in relation to the world. Our homes and communities were our world. Now, no one, be it individual or nation, can live to himself—it is of the world and as such can make itself felt. Looking backward should teach us to go forward in the "faith of our fathers," for only in it is there any light to lighten the chaos of this atomic age; only in it is there a fusing power that will melt prejudice, hatred, envy, strife and bitterness. Let there be at last—one world.

Veterans Join In Service To Honor Fallen Comrades

H. W. TOMES

Remembrance Day service was held in Holland Landing United church on Sunday evening when a large number attended in respect and honor of those who made the supreme sacrifice in our world wars.

Quite a number of the members of the Newmarket Veterans' Association and the Canadian Legion with the local veterans made a good representation, occupying the three front seats, the remaining seats being filled to capacity.

The service was conducted by Rev. F. G. MacTavish, a veteran of the first world war. The guest speaker was Squad-Ldr. Ernest Harston, chaplain for six years in the R.C.A.F., who gave a splendid address and one appropriate for the occasion, and brought to the minds of the veterans present that spirit of comradeship so frequently demonstrated among the armed forces while on active service and which seems to be lacking in civil life. Those who listened to Padre Halston at that service felt regret when he closed his address and wished time would have permitted him to continue.

The hymns chosen were O God Our Help in Ages Past, The Supreme Sacrifice and Kipling's Let Us Forget. The choir sang an anthem and Mrs. Langford, Toronto, sang the solo, Be Still My Soul. After the offertory, the Last Post was sounded. Then the two minutes' silence were followed by Reveille. Alex Eves, accompanied by Dr. G. S. Gilbert, then sang There Is No Death, which was followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

After the service, all those present were invited to the basement of the church where refreshments were served by the ladies of the congregation. Old acquaintances were renewed and reminiscences of the days long past were enjoyed by the veterans. After refreshments were served, Padre Harston gave a talk of his work in eastern countries during his service in the R.C.A.F., also of his work with the Red Cross in which service he is now engaged. His talk, intermingled with humorous incidents, was enjoyed by all present and hopes were expressed by all that Holland Landing United church would again have the pleasure of listening to him.

Mr. MacTavish, on behalf of the members of the church and congregation, expressed sincere thanks and appreciation to the guest speaker, to the visiting veterans for their cooperation, to the visiting soloists, to the bugler for the services he so ably executed during the service and to the ladies for providing ample refreshments.

Thus ended one of the best Sunday services held in this church. It is the wish of all who attended that there may be a continuance of these services in the future, to be followed by a social hour where the congregation and others may meet for quiet talks and fellowship that may be a nucleus in these chaotic days towards that era when man shall grasp the hand of his fellow man and greet him as a brother.

$200 FINE PENALTY FOR SLOT MACHINES

Linda Crawford was fined $200 in magistrate's court last Friday when convicted of keeping a common gaming house at 14 Botsford St. Magistrate W. E. McIlveen presided.

John Edward Legate of the provincial police testified that he and Provincial Constable Crone had entered the Botsford St. premises, known as the Fred Crawford Pavilions on Nov. 9.

"In the front of the store, on the counter we found a small-type slot machine," said Legate. "We both played it until Constable Crone got a winning combination. There was no way for the player to control his score. The machine took anything from a penny to 25 cents. We also played a second machine called 'wild deuces,' which was of the same general type as the first."

"There were two punchboards on display, in full view of the public. They were not within reach but they were visible. We played the boards, each punch costing five cents."

"After a while we identified ourselves. The proprietor, Fred Crawford, was not there but his wife, Linda, was. At the time she said that she did not know who the owners were, but she admitted that her husband split 50-50 with them."

Mrs. Crawford testified that the machines had been there when she and her husband had taken over the proprietorship, and that they had simply carried on, without knowing that they were breaking the law. The machines were confiscated and Mrs. Crawford was given two weeks to pay the fine.

Henry Light, Penetang, pleaded guilty to careless driving following a collision with Emmerson Spence, Bradford. Provincial Constable W. A. KESWICK RIFLE CLUB OPENS WINTER SEASON

With a fusillade of shots which resulted in some good scores, the Keswick Rifle Club last week started out on its winter season. There was an excellent turnout of members which partly consisted of a newly formed junior group who call themselves the Boy Marksmen.

It was decided among senior members in a recent meeting that young people should be admitted to the club for several reasons—not only does the future of any club lie in its junior members, but a club of this kind offers competent instruction in the care and handling of .22 calibre sporting rifles.

Give Flag To Scouts In Memory Of Son

In a quietly impressive little ceremony at Keswick public school, the evening of November 8, Keswick Boy Scouts were presented with a beautiful Union Jack. The flag is mounted on a collapsible standard, suitable for parade and display purposes. The gift is from Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Retter in memory of their son, Allan J. Retter. Allan, who lost his life while serving with an R.C.A.F. crew over Germany, was one of the original members of the Keswick Scout group.

In presenting the flag both Mr. and Mrs. Retter, as well as their daughter, Doris (Mrs. Young), spoke to the boys. Their other daughter, Connie, was also present. Mrs. Young is a cubmaster in Toronto, her husband being Scoutmaster of the older boys in the same church.

A printed order of service used at Keswick United church the morning of Remembrance Sunday, Nov. 10, included the names of those associated with the congregation and who served in World War II. The first list, under the heading Beyond Canada, showed 40 names while the In Canada list carried 29. Copies of this order are still available.

LATEST NEWS
ABOUT GENERAL MOTORS
DELIVERIES
Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

Because of the continued and unavoidable shortages of various materials, production of new cars and trucks has remained behind our expectations. As a result, shipments of new cars and trucks to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time.

We know that General Motors is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars and trucks to us and to its hundreds of other dealers throughout Canada... and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current and future output.

Of this you may be sure: We shall continue to make deliveries of cars and trucks to our customers as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you do take delivery of your new General Motors car or truck.

Keep Your Present Car or Truck Running
Meanwhile, may we suggest that you safeguard your transportation by bringing your car or truck to us for service now and at regular intervals. Let us help you to keep it in good running condition—to maintain its performance, appearance and resale value—until the day when your new General Motors car or truck comes along.

COMMENCEMENT

A combination of these three purposes sees education as the basis to develop all the talents of an individual for social and useful living, he said.

According to Mr. Graham, education should inspire two things. The first, "If I don't know this thing, I'll find out." It is up to me to make my contribution to the common good. He said that there are four citizenships that must be considered: citizenship in family, in community, in country and in the world.

Valedictory Text

The following is the text of the valedictory address of the Newmarket high school commencement Friday:

"When I learned that the year of giving the valedictory address had fallen on me, I suddenly realized that this would be farewell to Newmarket high school, the place where we had spent some of the happiest years of our lives.

"As I looked back over the years, I realized the effort our teachers had put forth to guide us along the stony path of learning. We did not realize it then, but each time a firm hand was laid out to help us over the rough spots, we were to be a little wiser, and a little closer to our goal of being good citizens. We are grateful for our teachers' help in solving our problems, both educational and in other fields. We appreciate their kindness, patience, and understanding they showed in helping us to be the right kind of citizens.

"Our teachers too must have seen honors to tell about our classroom days, as we all know the classroom is likely to bring forth unplanned wit and well-planned puns. I think each one of us has a favorite classroom incident he will remember long after other thoughts of school have passed.

"We were attending school through difficult times. Many of our number heard the call to war, and marched off to war. Some of those boys marched the halls of Newmarket high school again last year, and are members of the graduating class of '46.

"We all enjoyed the extra-curricular events. The form programs were always a source of entertainment. The favorite comment on them was 'What a show!' We were always ready to see the boys come home triumphantly from rugby and hockey games and girls from basketball and volleyball games. A school dance always meant great excitement. During the war years, Air Cadets were organized for the boys, and the girls spent all their spare time knitting for the Red Cross. These activities were all part of our school and social life.

"Those of you who are still at Newmarket high school, take our advice, support activities to the best of your ability. Enter into things with the spirit of what can I put into it, rather than what can I get out of it. Your reward will come naturally if you keep these thoughts in mind. Those words can also be applied to those of us who are graduating, without going amiss.

"We have reached the end of a chapter in our lives, and if we are turning the page slowly it is because we must go cautiously until we grasp the full meaning of our new lives. We must learn by our own mistakes, and we must learn not to make mistakes. Each one of us realizes that to-day's youth will be to-morrow's leaders.

"Like the Phoenix displayed on our school crest, we must be able to rise up and fly again when only ashes are left. We must march forward into the future with our heads held high and be able to say with confidence:

"I do not fear to-morrow, for I have seen yesterday, and I love today."

NEWMARKET

Members of St. Paul's Anglican church W.A. packed their annual bale of warm, used clothing and garter of Christmas gifts for the needy settlers in the Canadian northwest on Thursday. ## Anticipate Active Year For Aurora Hockey Fans

Aurora Lions hockey club will be represented this year in the Junior C series of the O.H.A., in the midwest series of the O.M.H.A., and four bantam teams will play in a local league, according to an announcement by Leonard Simmons, chairman of the Lions sports committee.

Last year Aurora won the O.M.H.A. midwest B championship, and while most of the team would be available for either juvenile or midwest, Mr. Simmons and those associated with him are faced with the problem of providing hockey for members of last year's juvenile team who would otherwise be kept out of hockey.

"Sooner or later we will have to move up to Junior hockey, and we feel we might as well make a start this year," said Mr. Simmons. "We are not expecting any championships but we should be able to produce a team that will hold its own with the best in the district." Newmarket, Bradford, and Stouffville are definite starters in the C series, while Richmond Hill is not likely to have a team.

Crowded Out Of Town Hall, Court Sits In Council Room

With all available space in the old town hall building absorbed by three public school rooms, the fire and police departments and the V.O.N. nurse, the former site of the sittings of the 6th Division Court are not available. The court, which meets in Aurora every two months for civil cases, was held in the Aurora council chambers last week and with five disputed cases on the list, the municipal building was jammed to capacity with witnesses, spectators, and counsels.

The ventilation and acoustic properties, and interruptions came in for some caustic comments from His Honor Judge Frank Denton of Toronto, who declared the council chamber was "unsuitable as a court room."

Court officials pointed out that ordinarily there were very few contested cases on the list and the entire court was generally ended within an hour of opening, in place of last week's four-hour session, which was unexpected.

NEWMARKET HOLD SHOWER

A pretty shower in honor of Miss Nora French was held at the home of Miss Dora Doane, 57 Timothy St. W., on the evening of November 7 when 15 of Miss French's friends surprised her with a cup and saucer shower. ## $285,000 Expenditure To Be Election Issue

Nominations for mayor, reeve, deputy reeve, six councillors, three public school trustees, and a Hydro-Electric Commissioner will be held in Trinity parish hall on Monday, Nov. 25, at 7.30 p.m. Clerk Harold Clark will receive nominations until 8.30 p.m., after which time the usual report on municipal affairs will be given by the retiring council, and new candidates will make their speeches.

With a by-law being submitted to the public for the approval of an expenditure not to exceed $285,000 for a new public school, the speeches of school board candidates will be of more interest than usual, and ratepayers should avail themselves of the opportunity of learning the facts of the case.

With the exception of pronouncements made by the 1949 council at the last meeting indicating that three members would be retiring from office, there appears to be little interest in nomination night. Any new candidates are keeping it a dark secret from the electors.

Mrs. Velma Weir, Virginia Wins County Oratory Test

Mrs. Velma Weir, Virginia, will represent York county junior farmers in the semi-finals of the juniors' oratorical contest sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Mrs. Weir won the county championship on Tuesday night at Aurora high school, with an address on "The advantages of farm life."

Born and raised on a farm, married to a farmer, and with a family of two, the pretty young matron spoke from experience when she said "planning to together, sharing common interests tends to draw farm couples close together, and makes for unity in the home." Advantages cited for farm life were healthier living conditions in raising a family, plenty of home grown nutritious foods and "room for youngsters to grow and play."

There was always something on the farm to interest children and "you very seldom see a farm boy in juvenile court," she said. She scorned the generally prevalent idea of farm work being too lengthy in hours, lacking variety, and after-work entertainment. This situation existed years ago, but modern implements, education for better farming, electricity, radio, and transportation had changed this, she said. The farmer was the one person who could "arrange his work to suit his convenience" and still be his own boss. Paying tribute to the wartime contribution of Canada's farmers, she declared the farmers were anxious to still feed Europe and do their part in getting Europe on its feet.

Jesse Bryson of Vellore, the 1945 champion, spoke on the subject: "The road ahead for youth in agriculture." He stressed the job of youth to interest themselves in public affairs and take part in the affairs of their country. The successful farmer was one who had "a love of the land." "We reap far more than we sow, but we still reap what we sow," he declared.

Mrs. Betty McLean of Unionville spoke on "Education today." She said "equality for education of the youth in Canada does not exist." Many farm children would proceed on past high school if given the opportunity, but the big item of room and board prevented many. She urged the adoption of a plan whereby children with aptitude and ability should have a chance for higher education.

Mason Fletcher of Woodbridge was chairman, and judges for the debate were Wilfred Adams and Miss Alberta Sinclair of Aurora, and John Meyer of Newmarket. Charlie Haines of Sharon was song leader with Miss Margaret Watson of Kilmory of the piano.

An amateur contest was warmly applauded, the "Harmonettes," six comely girls from Vellore who sang "Home" and Malotte's "The Lord's Prayer," and Harvey Evans of Sharon, monologist, delighting the audience. The "Harmonettes" were first choice of the judges.

A. O. Dalrymple, assistant agricultural representative, addressed the meeting briefly, explaining the rules of the contest. The winners will be banqueted and receive prizes from the Toronto Downtown Kiwanis Club as well as proceeding on in the competition.

REFORMED VIKES

but that the housing shortage, which he described as "terrible", ran a close second. He said that the black market was "extremely small" and that he thought that "the organization of the rationing system was one of the best things that the authorities did."

He said that the meat allowance for three people was "less than a dollar's worth for a week," and that fruit was almost entirely absent.

"Switzerland, Belgium and Denmark are lands of plenty compared to England," he said. "What the British really want is a little encouragement. The housewife just wants something to buy. They lack an incentive to work when there is nothing to buy with their wages. The vitality of the people is down which has resulted in a loss of efficiency, but everything considered they are working well."

Mr. Illingworth praised the work done by the married women and the old people during the war. "I knew a man over 80 who worked in the shipyards at Hull," he said.

Officially, the reason for Mr. Illingworth's visit to this continent was "to describe the maiden passenger voyage of the Queen Elizabeth and to write a little about the American elections."

He ascribed the sweeping Republican victories in the United States to the desire for a change that is prevalent all over the world. In his opinion it is less of a Republican victory than a Democratic defeat.

"My impression of the States is that they are looking at the future with a little less vigor and confidence. Almost everyone is saying that there will be a slump and the only argument seems to be when the slump will come. This seems an unusual attitude before the boom gets really under way. It is an odd fatalism which I think is being increased by the disorganized haste in the demolition of controls."

Mr. Illingworth, in speaking of his wartime activities, said that Field Marshal Alexander had the reputation of being the "officers' general"; Montgomery was "the soldiers' general"; but that Lieut. General G. B. Horrocks of the 30th corps was "the correspondents' general."

"General Crerar had the reputation among correspondents of being the best briefer—he briefed us before any sort of attack," Mr. Illingworth said. "All of the generals showed complete confidence in the press. Crerar never referred to a battle as a 'show,' he always used the term 'attack' or 'battle.'"

In the early days of the war, Mr. Illingworth was bombing correspondent and he visited Hull, London, Plymouth, Coventry, Liverpool, Glasgow and sev-home is not a charming fellow who does amusing things; he is a potential killer, and we need a public opinion that will tell him so without hesitation.

Second, we need more stringent laws to deal with the offense, and rigid enforcement of them. The penalty for driving while intoxicated ought to be heavy enough to make even the most carefree indulger pause; and it ought to be applied without fear or favor. Alcohol and gasoline make a disastrous mixture. It is high time that we found some way of squealing the foolish folk who persist in trying to use it.

eral other cities. He made one trip in a motor torpedo boat as an escort but the trip was "uneventful". He never went into action with any planes but did do quite a bit of flying. He went to Africa and Italy to "do air stuff".

Later, with Montgomery's army, he went from Normandy to Luxembourg for the signing of the surrender of the German army facing the 21st army group.

From there he went through the German lines to be in on the liberation of Copenhagen on May 4, 1945. He was with the British second army when Paris and Brussels were liberated and "is now entitled to wear the bronze oak leaf which denotes the award of Mention in Dispatches". Just after its liberation, Mr. Illingworth was allowed to visit the Belsen horror camp.

With the first British troops he went into Berlin and stayed for the Potsdam conference. He has been covering Europe "and its problems" ever since. He saw the finish of the Nuremberg trials but "won the loss and didn't see the hangings."

The only time that Mr. Illingworth was with the Americans was on the way to Paris. He was with the Canadians in Holland. He was under fire and bombing at Falaise and Caen but the only time he was ever injured was when he was hit by a British tank going into Brussels.

"We were in Arras on September 2, 1944, when we met General Miles Dempsey. We asked him what he had planned and he said that he was going to crack through to Brussels, about 60 miles away, on the following day. When they went we raced along with them. We stopped for small engagements along the way and once a group of Germans came out and surrendered to us. Another time when we pulled in we heard a terrific roar and a British tank telescoped our entire column. No one was seriously hurt but the Germans opened up on us and we dived into a ditch. A British tommy came along and shouted, 'You fool, you're on the wrong side of the road'. Five minutes later we were drinking toasts in a nearby house."

WHY?

By J. JAY WATSON

Riding one day in a street car, I found myself attracted by a small boy chatting with his mother. He was asking a succession of questions, to which the mother seemed patiently to answer. Her explanations, however, stopped his questions scarcely long enough for him to formulate another. The boy seemed imbued with the idea that there was a flood of questions, the answers to which must be unfolded to him. His manner told me that the world to him was a huge question mark, as he broke out with redoubled energy, continually re-interrogating. Why? Why? Why?

On visiting Newmarket library recently, as I thought of its many sections and scanned some of the books, I realized that here was a headquarters for answering a million and one questions for all ages.

I started a cursory survey in the juvenile section, where I soon found myself thinking what a treasure house of knowledge is stored in our town library. Turning the pages of a few books revealed a wealth of knowledge such as would be valuable for any boy or girl, and to many old boys and girls, I venture to say. To cite a few examples, it is alluring to read these captions: What Sound Is, What Causes Shadows, The Story In A Pair Of Shoes, Where Paper Comes From, etc.

In the adjoining section was found The Art and Craft of Home Making. And here we come upon: Vitamins — What They Are, Romance of Modern Chemistry and dozens of other books, packed with secrets of home making.

We can travel the world over, through library books. Life in China, Egypt and the Holy Land, Africa, and Europe are ours in story for the asking. We can travel the British Isles; we can learn The Spirit Of London, and of Old English Customs And Ceremonies.

Arnold Bennett tells How To Live; Robert Burns and Charles Dickens' minds are disclosed—if we choose to take time to acquaint ourselves with them.

There are reference books in which we can read of Peoples Of All Nations; there is a Canadian Encyclopedia, and Encyclopaedia Britannica — all inviting the town's readers, who can spare the time, to drink them in.

For soaring imagination there is fiction. For the better side of life we can enjoy the books on religion. Here we can find, for one example, a book by Joseph R. Shoo, in which we can read, "When you work to fulfill the purposes of God, you will never be disillusioned. This concept of life exalts it. Everything matters with God. God cares and that is enough."

If anyone could list the names of authors of books, and of those who have contributed in reference books and other publications I think they would suffice in number to populate a sizable city.

What we read colors the mind, as surely as the change of season from summer to autumn changes the coloring on our trees.

The different forms of sports and recreation for which Newmarket offers inviting facilities are health promoting and notable contributions to the welfare of the town's citizens. The wealth of material in the library warrants corresponding appreciation and recognition. The answers it can give to an endless number of the "why's" in life attest its value.

In the Canadian Review of Music and Art in August, 1944, an article appeared by L. deB. Carrière, entitled Artists Training Is the Right of Every Child. In this the writer quotes Sir Henry Newbolt, famous educator, as saying, "Literature is the concealed quintessence in the form of written records, of that which the best minds in the world have hoped, thought, felt and done. It is, in the intellectual sphere, what coal and iron deposits are in the sphere of nature. Its value does not lie on the surface. It can only be gotten at by digging. It is the stored up mental energy of the world's best minds which, when burned in the furnace of the mind, gives light, knowledge and generates heat, enthusiasm and inspiration."

The town library is a public utility for the common weal.

'Old Sweats' Take Honors In Impromptu Target Match

A humorous account of his ventures from D Day on in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany was given at the Newmarket Lions club meeting by Col. John W. G. Hunter, M.C., Nov. 12.

Col. Hunter is the officer commanding the Queen's York Rangers. Enlisting early in the war, he transferred to the Queen's Yorks and later went overseas on loan to the British army. He served with the Green Howards, an assault group, during the invasion and in the fighting which followed.

Col. Hunter was introduced by K. M. R. Stiver who had served in the Queen's Yorks with him prior to his going overseas, and thanked by Ang West who recalled meeting Col. Hunter some years before when Mr. West was a member of the Yorks.

It was veterans' night at the club and the basement of the parish hall of St. Paul's church was crowded to capacity with members and their guests, veterans of both wars. The burning issue of who were the best shots, the "old sweats" or the young ones, was settled to the satisfaction of all when W. M. Cockburn produced a toy target pistol and an impromptu shooting match was arranged.

Ken Johns, John Scott and Ken Morton, representing the younger generation, were decisively defeated by Howard Hugo, Wesley Brooks and a veteran of the South African war, John Hellam.

UNION STREET

The Union Street Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Harold Bray November 7. Following the business part of the meeting, the citizenship convener, Mrs. David English, took charge of the program, which opened with the singing of O Canada. Current events were given by Mrs. Ted Breen. A paper entitled "I am a Canadian" was given by Mrs. English. A quiz contest on Ontario counties, cities, and towns was conducted by Mrs. Thos. Swanson. The hostesses were Mrs. W. Rose, and Mrs. E. Callender. Mrs. L. Johnston served pie.

Miss Audrey Eves, Strange, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Eves.

Mrs. Douglas Beckett and Mrs. Ashenhurst, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Doner and Mrs. Ruth Gooding of Gormley, motored to Parry Sound on Sunday to see Mr. Charles Milsted who is in the hospital there as a result of a hunting accident at Pickering River. Douglas Beckett accompanied the injured man to Parry Sound where he is progressing favorably.

Those attending the luncheon at the Central Area Institute convention, Royal York hotel, on Tuesday were Mrs. W. Rose, Mrs. Thos. Swanson, Mrs. I. Rose, Mrs. L. Johnston, Mrs. S. Eves, and Mrs. D. Beckett. Mrs. F. Weddell and Mrs. Ashenhurst were also present.

Mrs. Wilburn Beckett spent Tuesday in Toronto.

DOWN THE CENTRE

By AD. BULSE

Markham Millionaires will play in intermediate B under the new ruling of the O.H.A. which grades teams from centres below 5,000 population in that class. That means that in all probability the doughboys will be grouped with Newmarket Vets this season. Whatever other teams are available for easy grouping is not as yet apparent. Sutton, Oakwood, Whitby and per chance a Toronto team or two are all possibilities. The Markies are practising faithfully at Oshawa arena and in an exhibition game defeated Oshawa Canadian Legion from the A series 6-5. Coach Ernie Lawrie is taking his time signing players and will only carry the best.

Charlie Nesbitt, Bradford boy and ex-Newmarket camp player, has put his John Henry on a Markham certificate and one line features the powerful scoring trio of the 1943 intermediate season, Nesbitt and the Bangay brothers, Bob and Nick. Both of the brothers saw service overseas and their buddy, "Goldilocks", knows every move they will make and acts accordingly. They will have a large following from the fans this season.

Harry Milroy, ex-Sutton Green-shirts pivot star who started his hockey career with Markham Juniors, centres another line with those potent puck snipers of other days, Austy Baker and Bob Lawrie, on the wings. That's six dandy front liners with Jackie Watson, Pesky Wetherall, Forgie and Northcote available.

Jack Harper has been guarding the twine cage so well that it's doubtful if Dick Schad or Carl Sellars will be able to beat him out. One of the latter will be carried as a spare. The defence has not finally been settled upon, with Ike Harper, Chub Spence, Vic Meharg, Ili Lawrie and others ready to bump the opposition. The Millionaires are a co-operative outfit in that the players all have invested greenbacks into the club's running expenses, and will cut the melon accordingly.

A new stick has been tried out by Markham, and Stouffville Juniors, who take the ice next week at Oshawa, will try it too. Approved, 'tis said, by the O.H.A., it is a combination wood-plastic stick. The blade and upper handle are of plastic. No tape is needed on either part according to reports, and players who have used them are "sold" on the idea. Ernie Lawrie seems to be one of the moving spirits behind the scheme and doubtless the clubs in the Aurora-Newmarket area will get an opportunity to try them out before long. The price is about the same as for the better grade sticks.

Uxbridge is going back into junior C hockey this winter with most of the '46 team available. In addition the big bush league, which used to play for the Con-sels cup up until 1931, is being revived and will play two nights a week. Already entered are teams from Sunderland, Udon, Reach, Utica, Uxbridge town, Uxbridge junior farmers and Goodwood. Overtures are being made, too, in the direction of Zephyr, Ballantrae of the Aurora circuit and Mount Albert. What will transpire in the case of Zephyr and Ballantrae remains to be seen. With Leon Smith declaring he has hung up his pads, and Joe Peat, Mutt Collings and Chinger Groves supposedly due to play their hockey this winter for either Vets or Merchants, Bert Lockie and his associates might find it a bit difficult to bring the champion Blues up to par.

Chapman A.C. will play its junior B games at Richmond Hill arena, as they did last winter. Just what grouping the Toronto team will receive is in doubt. Scarborough Rangers, who won the junior B group honors last winter and will feature Herbie Rose, Richmond Hill, on their defence this winter, have moved into Varsity arena with Varsity, St. Michael's Buzzers and West York (a new entry), as playmates. Toronto navy, De La Salle Oaklands and one or two other new teams will be seeking grouping.

Corner Boys A.C. will have a B team, with its home games at Wexford arena. Charlie "Chuck" Davies, Toronto mercantile renown, will manage the club. Clubs are mushrooming up everywhere this season. Aurora arena had an inquiry from an organization known as the Young hockey club for ice space for a junior B team, but of course could not oblige with ice hours because of local commitments. R. Rowcliffe, 32 Greensides Ave., Toronto, was the organizer for the team and he has been unable to secure suitable ice space anywhere, with the net result the proposed new club is likely to fold.

The time clock, an old familiar friend absent last year for repairs from Aurora arena, will be back in circulation again this season. The tobacco firm which sponsors the clock as an advertising medium is scheduled to make repairs and have it in working order by the end of the year and about time, too. The clock was missed by both hockey and lacrosse fans last winter for there's nothing like following the hands as the play progresses. Newmarket will have a junior C team this winter according to James B. Walker, with George Haskett, Vic Giovannelli and Harry Thoms looking after things. The kids from the minor teams of last winter will compose the team and it looks almost like the old trolley days with the Hill and Aurora entered and players well confined to strictly home-brews. Junior hockey has been absent from Aurora since 1942 and from Newmarket since 1944. Bradford is expected to be in the group too.

Ewart Pinder and Bob Peters will both be doing whistle-toting in the district O.H.A. games, as will Jack Bennett of Jefferson and probably one or two newcomers. Referees will meet on Sunday, Nov. 24, at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, in private dining-room nine at 2 p.m. Secretary W. A. Hewitt requests all who intend to referee or act as linesmen to attend to get the lowdown on the rule interpretations. Anyone in the North York area interested would do well to attend.

The O.H.A. annual is carded for the same place on Saturday, Dec. 7, and the district will be more heavily represented this year than in a good many seasons.

Aficionados make their debut as minor hockey sponsors this year and for the first time there will be O.H.A. hockey in the east side of the county. Stouffville, Markham, Unionville, Milliken and Agincourt, where minor baseball teams have flourished, will all be linked in the minor puck field.

Scotty Malr is one of the reasons Gus Marker has his Tulsa Oilers up near the top of the A.H.L. this winter. The Toronto farm hands are current leaders or in second place and Hughie was tied with three others for second place in the league scoring at the weekend. The Newmarket boy had garnered six goals and seven assists. Stan Smith, Minneapolis Millers, headed the marksmen with 15 points. Bill Wilson, another former Aurora junior, is moving up in the scoring parade and will shortly be in the top brackets. Tommy Brodie and Phil Davidson, two of the better young Aurora athletes and both members of the championship midget lacrosse team, are flirting with the idea of joining the Canadian navy and may shortly be lost to Aurora sport circles.

Still on the trail: Jack Culverwell, who along with Smith was for many years the backbone of the Sutton teams, is with Barkers in the T.H.L. major series this winter. Culverwell has played in England with Red Deer Army, in the Maritimes, and mercantile in Toronto for many years in addition to his Sutton performances.

Frank Michanluk, former Aurora hockeyist and softballer and one of the town's most popular imports, is with Naval Vets in the West Toronto mercantile. "Mitch" is an ex-airman, but qualifies for the Tars as a serviceman. Boris Gerasimoff, who played in the local junior "B" group with Navy Juniors, is a teammate.

Bunny Glover, ex-Aurora R.C. O.C. star of hockey and softball, who also of course has been with Montreal Royals, Camp Borden Meds, and Kingston Army, is with Dorsts in the same circuit. It will be recalled that Glover played in a couple of games for the Aurora Depot last winter, even if he didn't qualify under the league rules.

Bert Turney, who, while a civilian, played for the Aurora Army team in 1943 when the club won the O.H.A. intermediate championship, is with Mahers in mercantile at Varsity. Norman Briley, star soccer goalie of the Newmarket camp team, and last winter sterling goalie for Scarborough Rangers, is between the pipes for Stoneys in the same league and doing a grade A job.

Otherwise athletically: We can't resist awarding an orchid to those three pulchritudinous girl cheer leaders from Richmond Hill high school, who brightened the atmosphere of those chilly autumn days of the soccer season with their efforts to root the Richmond Hill team home. The comely girls in the scanty outfits, who needn't take a back seat from the best of the Toronto schools, were Yvonne McMullen, Barbara Panke and Noreen Cunningham.

Major Dick Gibbs of St. Andrew's College, who coached the S.A.C. soccer squad this season, rates a mention for his efforts. Relegated to a minor sport by rugby, Major Gibbs had to take the leftovers for his soccer eleven, but fielded the best team St. Andrew's has turned out in some years, and with a couple of more players would have produced a dangerous team. While unable to defeat any team, they did manage to tie the Richmond Hill, with whom the champion Aurora team battled to two scoreless draws. It was that tie, scored by S.A.C., that allowed Aurora to take the championship without going into a third game.

Congrats to Harry Couse, ace pitcher of the Cookstown softball squad and well remembered for his hurling feats in the York-Simcoe league. Harry was married this month to Miss Gwen-dolyn Doris Dawson of Cooks-town, a sister of his buddy, the late Gordy Dawson, who caught for him before the war.

Ken Wadsworth, trainer for Newmarket camp hockey squads and boxing instructor at No. 23 B.T.C., according to the latest re-lease by the Canadian Boxing Association, is still rated as Can-adian middleweight champion. Wadsworth has been doing quite a bit of fighting around Buffalo and Detroit.

Doc Ames, former netminder of the Newmarket Redmen when canaltown boasted a team of pure homebrews that could do battle with the best in the county, is an ardent curler now, and this winter heads the Kirkland Lake curling club, one of the biggest curling clubs in the north. Colborne is a pharma-cist and gets his thrills, aside from curling, from politics, where he beats the drums vociferously for the C.C.F.

Newmarket junior baseball team hasn't been forgotten, and when Christmas rolls around the players will find nifty royal blue windbreakers beside the tree. George Haskett just couldn't resist playing Santa Claus to his proteges, who made such a fine showing the past summer.

Moved from the district is Clarence Mylks of Richmond Hill, well known district sports-man. "Clarry", in the '20's, was active in baseball and hockey for the Hill, and since then has been active in curling and bowling, as well as lending a hand to minor sport. Employed with the Ontario Hydro he and his family have moved to Delta, where he has secured a well deserved up-grading in his work.

Norman Helise has his pride and joy, Williegivt, back in the hands of Doc Hodgson at Tod-morden. Williegivt was taken south early this fall, and was due to race at Pimlico and other southern tracks, but the filly failed to round into form and will be wintered carefully.

John Stuart reports a fairly good financial year on the track, and his hurdlers, notably Keenebunk, who are in action on the Amerk tracks, are beginning to show form.

The Traffic Is Terrific!

Voices, like people, must use crowded lines and busy central stations when travelling these days.

The cause is the same everywhere—traffic has increased tremendously since war started. Manufacturers were too busy on war orders to meet civilian demands—and now—materials are hard to get.

Under these conditions, telephone people are doing a magnificent job in keeping the service standards high. Our huge extension and improvement program is being rushed through as fast as the supply of materials will permit.

Facts Affecting Your Telephone:

- In 1939 we served 750,000 subscribers today we serve 1,140,000.
- Local switchboards are handling more calls than ever before.
- Long Distance calls are three times as numerous as in 1939.
- In 1939 we had 9,000 employees. Now we have 21,000.

QUEENSVILLE QUEENSVILLE CHURCH HOLDS ANNIVERSARY

Nov. 14 — Queensville United church held its anniversary services Sunday, Nov. 3, with record crowds attending both services. The warm welcome reached a peak when old members returned to take part in the celebration. The whole area, from Sutton to Newmarket, had some representation, with visitors from Toronto and other large centres.

The visit of Dr. H. J. Pritchard of Victoria College, Toronto, added further to the celebration. In harmony with National Education Week, he took for his morning theme "The value and importance of a Christian education." He said that under the pressure and advance of our times, a good education was a necessity. He paid high tribute to the valuable work being done both by public and high school teachers. He called attention to the essential values of a university course and of college professors who have given liberally of their life to lift and inspire others to a worthy citizenship. He said that we must learn to live valiantly, that to live for service and not for profit is to answer to a higher scale of values. He urged that more farmers send their children on to Christian colleges.

His evening message was entitled "The Song of the River." Congregational singing marked both services.

Despite the late season, the church was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers. The Queensville choir, under the capable leadership of Mrs. J. L. Smith, excelled itself. The soloists for the day were Miss Ruby Strasser and Mr. Murray Huntley.

The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Albert E. Millen, B.Th. The day will be remembered for a rich inspiration, a wonderful fellowship and a worthy milestone in the history of this church.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Watch Wrack still remains our choice for the King's Plate, as the books begin to take shape. Of course, Casa Camara and Ili Bunt, the pair owned by Willie Morrissey, are not regarded, as Mr. Morrissey hasn't them entered into the regal stakes, and it's too late now.

Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, millionaire cosmetician and race owner, and once a North York schoolgirl, paid $50,000 recently for a fine juvenile called Baby League, sired by the great War Admiral, with Bubbling Over as his dam. That is an investment that will probably pay dividends over the next few years.

Badminton, already flourishing at Aurora and Newmarket, finds another new club organized, with the Richmond Hill lads and lassies ready to belt the elusive bird. Mr. Hammond is president of the club, with Colin Crawford as secretary-treasurer. They hope for some inter-club competition. Games are played on the courts at the high school.

Flash! All is not well with junior hockey at Richmond Hill. The Community Youth Council, which was prepared to back the team, has decided otherwise. Stouffville has had its agents working overtime to have the Hill withdraw and let the players of junior age play there, with what should be a powerhouse team. Several Hill players have worked out with Aurora but prefer to play with Stouffville. Aurora, being closer geographically to the Hill than Stouffville, can step in and claim the players unless they grant a release for the boys to play with Stouffville. (That's been proved in the past).

Net result may mean the return of Jimmy Grainger and Grant Nighswander to the hockey fire-side bound to give the Hill kids a chance to play at key wars. They figured they home. The hockey picture continues to become clouded and will get worse before it finishes. A deal of some sort between Stouffville and Aurora seems the logical thing under the circumstances.

MARGARET ROSE WEDS IN CITY

St. John's Anglican church, West Toronto, was the setting for an interesting wedding on Saturday, Nov. 16, when Margaret, daughter of Mr. Robert Rose and the late Mrs. Rose of Potageville, was united in marriage to Earl Mears, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Mears of Weston. Rev. H. R. Hunt performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gown in white sheer with finger-tip veil, and carried a colonial bouquet of white baby 'mums and yellow roses.

She was attended by two bridesmaids, Marjory Giffen, in a floor-length peach taffeta gown with matching shoulder-length veil, and Beverly Burroughs, in blue sheer with matching veil. The maid of honor was Fidelia Mears, sister of the groom, in blue sheer with veil. The attendants carried colonial bouquets of white 'mums and tiny red roses.

The best man was Mr. Bruce Knapp, while Mr. Bruce Whitehead and Mr. Bud Edwards acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the groom's parents at Weston, where Mrs. Mears received dressed in navy blue sheer with corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bride's aunt, Mrs. M. Pickard of Buffalo, in blue velvet with corsage of red roses.

The happy couple left to spend a honeymoon in Buffalo, the bride travelling in a navy suit with matching accessories.

The Sunday service at Potageville United church was well attended. The minister, Rev. C. E. Cragg, preached an interesting sermon taken from Psalm 85. The text was "Oh Lord receive us again, that Thy people may rejoice in Thee."

Indirect Taxation Heavy On Farmers, Forum Agrees

By Mrs. W. H. Wilmet,
Farm Secretary

Newmarket East Farm Forum met at Sheldon Walker's home Nov. 4. Wesley Eves acted as discussion leader on the topic "What about farm taxes?" It was found that:

The property tax was considered unfair when improvements and replacements are taxed; that opportunities for advanced education were not in proportion to the taxes paid for educational purposes; that farmers pay large sums in indirect taxation such as on hardware, duties of farm machinery and automobiles, plus a direct sales tax on hydro, gasoline, excise on matches, etc.; that land values have not risen as property in towns and cities.

The income tax was considered the fairest form of taxation. As only about five percent of Canadian farmers file returns, reasons given were lack of income to tax, forms hard to understand, poor business methods and lack of time and energy to keep books. The luxury tax was thought just.

Proof that farming was not on a paying basis as compared with other industries was that farm operators are in the majority over 50 years of age; homes are empty while towns and cities are overcrowded; inability to pay for competent labor.

Newmarket East Farm Forum met Nov. 11 at the home of Wesley Eves, with Kenneth Weddel acting as group leader. Subject discussed was farm home improvement. Shortage of help, materials, and income were given as reasons for lack of improvement, although much has been accomplished during the past few years. Individual effort and initiative were stressed.

According to statistics 100,000 new homes are needed in Canada and 180,000 need repairs. Only 20 percent of the homes have electricity in comparison to 98 percent in Holland, 90 percent in France, 75 percent in New Zealand. The question was raised why hydro reserves can not be used to extend more lines or reduce costs.

On Farmers, Forum Agrees

The liquor problem was briefly reviewed. Beverage rooms are today considered a disgrace but cocktail bars would place a tone of respectability on drinking. Only the well-to-do could frequent such. The teaching of the abuse of liquor and parental example were given as alternatives, with proper social and recreational centres for all classes.

Mrs. J. S. Amos of Woodstock, a guest, added many helpful suggestions. Topic for next meeting "Is research meeting farm needs?"

Looking

with death for mustard
weed...decadent nature...
and light that back.

Death for mustard weed:
"Blasting a path of hope across weed-infested grain fields" is the way in which the Calgary Herald front-paged experiments made with C-I-L "Herbicide" 2-4-D.
Just ten days after spraying the test field, a mass of moisture-stealing mustard weed completely withered and died leaving the grain to grow unmolested.

Fortified manure: Barnyard manure need no longer be deficient in phosphate content. The chemical product known as C-I-L Nut Le-Phos, economically fortifies the manure, preserving valuable nitrogen and at the same time has powerful disinfecting properties which make its use most desirable.

Light that bends: That wonderful, crystal-like plastic, "Lucite", has many desirable properties, not the least of which is its ability to conduct light around corners. When you bend a "Lucite" rod the light actually bends with it and shines out of the end. Thus "Lucite" is invaluable for dental instruments and is being used increasingly for interior lighting effects and for ornaments.

What an ominous heading for such an innocent article as I have in my mind! Let me hasten to assure you that it isn't a record of surgical triumphs, and long weary hours at some hospital afterwards, with a resulting lion appearance of one's pocketbook as an aftermath. No, not quite the reverse! "Aftermath"—the aftermath of war, yes, and during the war too.

—And here's how it came to me
—the idea I mean—to write this small article. It will be small, for I don't intend to enlarge on each "operation." I was listening to the radio the other evening. The program to which I was listening ended but I was so absorbed in the needlework I was doing, I did not turn it off or tune to another station. I became aware that the new program was going to be very interesting, and so I listened more intently. It was an interview with the leader of an expedition to the Antarctic by the Americans for research purposes. They call it Operation High-Jump. That is why I headed this article Operations.

My mind flew back to several more operations, all of which have been interesting and spectacular—but wait—could one apply that word "spectacular" to Operation Diaper? That was rather amusing, and we must admit—apt and appropriate. Yes, I do believe we'll let the word stand, for it must have been spectacular to see baby clothes, designated by the word diaper, hung to dry all over a big luxury liner. The kitchens were given over to dietitians skilled in baby menus; children's books were in the library; children's toys, teddy bears, bunnies, baby rattles, momma dolls, and all the other childish play-things were scattered all over.
Mothers and babies and children were getting every attention possible, on their way to their new homes in Canada.

Then Operation Musk-Ox, how intently we followed the progress of that Arctic expedition and its journey back to southern Canada. We wondered why foreign observers were allowed to go along.

The one that is to start soon, an operation by U.S.A., is to be to the Antarctic. They have gone into the details thoroughly, mapping out the course, trying to be prepared for any adverse contingency, studying Arctic diets, and by the way, they have decided that the old style pemmican, or lean meat, dried and pounded and crushed into cakes, is one of the best foods for such an expedition. They are taking 13 ships in all, every sort of ship from an airship to a submarine—yes, even dogs and dog-sleds for emergencies. It was most absorbing. I wish I could recall all that was said.

I expect there are other "operations" that will come to my mind after I finish this and send it over to the office, but the one I think was the most marvellous of all was Operation Mulberry—that wonderful floating dock with which the British pulled the wool over the eyes of the enemy until the invasion of Normandy. I have never heard why it was called Operation Mulberry unless it was that mulberries are a deep purple color, and the mulberry operation was a deep, dark secret. You recall how, from all parts of England, different sections of the floating dock, so necessary to a successful landing of our troops, arrived at a certain spot simultaneously to make the complete whole; and all was done so secretly, so quietly, that even folks living there never suspected that anything out of the ordinary was happening.

I think that marvellous rescue after Dunkirk should have a name, if it hasn't. It was an operation and no mistake! Even small outboard motor boats cruised the channel that night to aid in the rescue of our men.
If you saw the picture called Mrs. Miniver, you will recall that part and still feel the thrill of it. That surely was Operation Dunkirk, but it had no rehearsal.

THE JUNIOR FARMERS' HOME

The Junior Farmers' home
plowing competition, held early in the month, was climaxed by a banquet in the Sunday-school rooms of the Agincourt Presbyterian church when the prizes the contestants. About 100 of the plow boys and their friends enjoyed the address of T. H.

Hillard, junior extension fieldman for Ontario and formerly assistant agricultural representative for York county. A quintette of girls from Vellore under the direction of Miss Margaret Watson sang two groups of selections.

on the judge, W. L. Clark,

THOSE PRAIRIE SAILORS

One man in every 12 who served in the Royal Canadian Navy during the war enlisted in Winnipeg. In figures that means 30 officers, 7,500 men as well as 700 members of the WRCNS. That means that this city alone supplied nearly enough personnel to man the peace-time navy.

In Memoriam

Baile—In loving memory of our father, Ernest Baile, who passed away November 23, 1935. Only a memory of bygone days, And a sigh for a face unseen; But a constant feeling that God alone Knows just what should have been. Ever dearly remembered by his children, Marjorie, Frank and Ted.

Burling—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Franklin C. Burling, who passed away November 23, 1945. Gone is the face we loved, so dear, Silent is the voice we loved to hear;

Too far away for sight or speech But not too far for thought to reach. Sweet to remember him who once was here And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Ever remembered by his wife and family.

Mereweather—In loving memory of a husband and father, George Mereweather, who passed away November 17, 1943. Our thoughts wander as daylight fades

To times of long ago And memory paints the scenes of old

In the gold of the twilight glow. Ever remembered by his wife, sons and daughters.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my thanks to the doctors and nurses of York County hospital who, along with the members of the staff, were so kind to me. ## Security, Not Imperialism

Said Behind Soviet Growth

The third weekly meeting of the Newmarket Citizens' Forum was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Proctor, 61 Prospect St., on the evening of November 14. The subject for discussion was Canada and the U.S.S.R.

To the question "What is the most probable explanation of Soviet foreign policy since the end of the Second World War?" the consensus was that a sense of insecurity and a fear of aggression, rather than an imperialistic desire for more territory and power, would explain Russia's actions in attempting to extend its influence over bordering countries, and its desire to spread the communist doctrine which, in itself, was quite legitimate if done in an open manner since it was comparable to Christian countries sending missionaries to other countries.

To explain the lack of communication and intercourse between our peoples, Capt. G. A. Crutcher suggested the desire of Russian rulers to keep their people satisfied with their lot by withholding knowledge of our way of life.

To the question, "What policy should be adopted by the other great powers towards the Soviet Union?" it was decided that a policy half way between conciliation and "get tough" would have the best results; that we stand firm on our fundamental beliefs, but make concessions to show our sympathy; that a policy of exchanging cultural leaders, students, radio programs in each other's language, ideas, discoveries in science, medicine and surgery, would ultimately destroy the suspicion which seems to be mutual.

The question, "Should the U.S.A. announce that it desired bases on northern Canadian soil for defense against possible aggression from over the pole, what attitude should the Canadian government take?" was answered by the majority as follows: At the moment there is no apparent justification for the construction of bases. If in the future, there appears a definite threat of aggression, it should then be for the Canadian people to decide.

The final question, "What should be the Canadian government's trade policy in relation to the U.S.S.R.?" was answered by the majority that every effort should be made to foster trade relations. As well as being to our mutual advantage, it was a form of personal contact and would result in greater confidence in each other.

The Citizens' Forum will meet again Friday, Nov. 22, at the home of Capt. and Mrs. G. A. Crutcher, 8 Court St. The topic for discussion at this time will be "The future of Britain's foreign policy," and the question, "What should be Britain's role in world affairs?"

Wm. Johnston will be chairman for this discussion. All interested are asked to come and take an active part or just to listen.

ARE WED 25 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. James Cullen, Niagara St., celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday.

FIRE IN FACTORY ROOF

DOES LITTLE DAMAGE

The Newmarket fire brigade was called on Tuesday afternoon to help extinguish a small blaze at International Wood Products Co.

The blaze was under the flashing of the roof. According to H. K. Jackson, manager, it apparently was caused from a flare back from the boiler into the feed.

"Our own extinguishers had the blaze partly under control," said E. F. Sweet, superintendent. "The town has not installed the water yet, so that the sprinkler system was useless, but it might not have done any good anyway."

Firemen had to tear away the gypcrete on the inside ceiling to get at the fire. "The fire could have been very serious if it had really gotten a start," said Mr. Jackson. "As it is, the damage may be as little as $50."
